

San Antonio, TX

This is my first time buying a house. As you can imagine - it's not the easiest purchase to make. George Russell came recommended from a highly regarded contractor I know to conduct the home inspection. I have to say - George made the home inspection process extremely easy. He was very thorough. I was present for the entire inspection, and from time to time he would point out things that I would probably overlook. During the walk through - he did a really good job explaining things to me in ways I, somebody who is not very familiar in the industry, can understand. His customer service is excellent.

The fact that he has been in the industry for 30 years is a plus.

You will not regret using George Russell for your home inspection, or any other home needs.
